WASHINGTON, D.C. 20505

10 March 1978

Dear Klaus:

As I told you before departing to breast the storm out to my home in suburbia last night, I am most grateful for your participation in the discussion/dinner last night. Your ten-minute lecture was superb and just what the occasion demanded. So were your contributions to the discussion afterwards. I am only sorry that Bob Bowie couldn't be there.

If you will send me an account of your expenses -- preferably with hotel bill and rail ticket stub -- I shall see that you are reimbursed and that you receive your consultant's check promptly this time.

25X1 I shall tell [ ] Director, Center for the Study of Intelligence, of your interest in his undertaking and probable willingness to help with advice and counsel. I'll give him your address and telephone numbers so he can make contact with you directly if he wishes. I might add that if the research program that Stan Turner mentioned last night, with me in charge (if I interpreted him correctly), gets rolling I may have some further need for your advice and counsel myself.

Warm regards,

25X1
